It is home to the University of South Florida Bulls baseball team of Division I American Athletic Conference (American). [2] The facility has a capacity of 3211 spectators. [3] He replaced Red McEwen field as the home of BAZEBOLA USF. [4] Ballroom features include 1,500 canopy seating, ground floor, fan pavilions, wool and press box. [3] The story after the demolition of Red McEwen Field after the 2010 season began the construction of a new facility at the same site. The alignment of the new field has been changed by McEwell to accommodate a hare shared with the newly built adjacent USF Softball Stadium to create a USF baseball/softball complex. [5] The physical area still bears McEwan's name, as can be seen on the backboard plan, but the stadium is called U.S. Baseball Stadium. Construction was completed in 2010-2011. at the stadium hosting its first game on February 25, 2011. In it, the Bulls lost to Elon 4-3 in extra innings. 3,126 spectators attended, usf baseball album. On March 11, 2011, an official ceremony was held announcing the opening of the facility. In 2011, the Bulls ranked 29th in Division I in college, averaging 1,537 per home game. [6] Praise in 2012, baseball student Eric Sorenson ranked the stadium as the fifth most underrated place in Division I baseball.
